

City and County of Denver

Auditor's Office/Prevailing Wage • 201 West. Colfax Ave., Dept. 705 • Denver, Colorado 80202
720-913 5000 FAX 720-913-5035 www.denvergov.org/auditor

Dennis J. Gallagher
Auditor

The Denver Auditor's Office, Prevailing Wage section is happy to announce a new partnership with LCPTracker, <http://www.LCPtracker.com/> a new program that allows contractors to submit certified payrolls electronically.

The LCPTracker system is a paperless, online system of entering certified payrolls. This program will begin with new Denver construction contracts beginning after March 26, 2007. Rather than submitting the familiar paper Prevailing Wage forms (Affidavits of Prime Contractor, Statements of Compliance, Weekly Payroll Spreadsheets), you will enter all payrolls and related information online. All project-specific wage rates & classifications will be online, and you'll choose specific rates and jobs from a menu. You'll enter employee information once, and it will remain in the system and be available for ALL future City projects, so you'll only enter data one time. All you'll need is a computer and an internet connection.

There is no cost to the contractors for this program. For the many companies who have implemented this system the biggest benefit appears to be a faster interval between the time the payrolls are entered and project payments are received.

Please visit the LCPTracker website <http://www.LCPtracker.com/>, and check out the program. If you have additional questions after you review the program, please call Rob Merritt, Prevailing Wage Supervisor at 720.913.5036.

Remember: for all City & County of Denver construction projects starting after March 26, 2007 we're going paperless with Prevailing Wage! And please note—this change will not be optional and there will not be a paper option: all companies will be using the new system.